LAKE COUNTY GRAND JURY NAMES THREE IN MURDER CHARGES

Indictments Against Bracher and Associates are Renewed.

The cases of Nye, Bairstow, County Treasurer Roy W. Bracher, Ira E. Pearson and Caleb E. Busick were again made the subject of indictments by the grand jury at Waukegan last week.

The renewal of the cases was due to the fact that defense attorneys contended that indictments made by the special grand jury were the results of prejudicial charges made by that body by Judge Edwards. The regular grand jury confirmed the original charges.

The grand jury returned 32 true bills naming 43 persons for a wide variety of offenses ranging all the way from murder to operating a confidence game.

Three citizens of the county must face the charge of murder. They are Otto Puschell, chauffeur for Mrs. Abby Farwell Ferry in Lake Forest, charged with murdering William Miller, maid in the Thorne Donnelly home in Lake Forest on the night of May 17; Manuel Ramirez, a Mexican charged with the murder of Christopher Urena of Waukegan on July 4th; and Clifford Robinson, colored, charged with the murder of Frank Tillman, also colored, both of North Chicago.

Waukegan Second Heavies to Invade Antioch Tomorrow

The Waukegan Second Heavies are to arrive Friday afternoon to meet the local high school football aggregation. The Antioch team walloped them pretty badly in what was the initial game for both teams at Waukegan a couple of weeks ago.

It is felt on both sides that almost anything can happen in two weeks, especially at the beginning of the football season, and both teams look forward to a hot contest. Waukegan critics rate the lake city aggregation as weak in organization, and it is thought that much will have been done to whip the team into a unit in the past two weeks.

Historic Green Bay Road to Be Marked

The first of a series of markers which are to be placed one mile apart along the entire length of the old Green Bay Road from Chicago to Fort Winnebago was set last week.

The marker was placed in the town of Somers, Wis., about a mile and a half north of the Somers town hall. This place was selected because it was near the site of the famous Martin Tavern, a midway house which was used by the pioneers as a place to change teams.

The marker consists of a concrete shaft about six feet high, imbedded in it is a bronze tablet on which is engraved the following: "Green Bay Road—Pioneer Road from Chicago to Green Bay in 1832." Beneath this is a smaller inscription indicating that the marking of the highway was sponsored by the Wisconsin society of Chicago.

Secretary Lamberton stated that the society expects to have the marking of the highway completed within five years. The state legislature has appropriated a fund to carry on the work under the direction of the native sons organization.

Antioch Palace Bowlers Issue Open Challenge

The Antioch Palace bowlers are out this week with an open challenge to any five man bowling team bowing an average of 180. The season is to start Monday night with five teams. It is anticipated that three more teams will be added to this group, to form a league to represent the region. Contests will be played off every Monday night at the Palace.

There are many good ten pin artists in the lake region and a number of exceptionally high scores have been made. Each team of the league is expected that each aggregation will give a choice a captain and it is expected good account of itself.

Mrs. Anna Kelly moved last week into the new home on North Main street which has just been completed.

Local Legionnaires Join in Wauconda Membership Drive

Harry Messing and John Horan of the Antioch Post of the American Legion were among the legionnaires of the county who assisted in the drive to reorganize the Wauconda Post of the Legion last Saturday afternoon.

Leading Legionnaires from the posts at Grayslake, Deerfield, Lake Bluff, Fort Sheridan, North Chicago, and Great Lakes were also present. The men assembled at the soft drink parlor of Harry Kiewans in Wauconda around 2 o'clock and by 3 o'clock a battery of cars were drawn up and operations started.

Every ex-service man of Wauconda was interviewed by the workers who met with excellent response. Charter members were secured and the establishment of a Post at Wauconda became a reality.

The project was carried out under the personal direction of Commander, Keogh, with the assistance of 49 legionnaires.

All of the Posts in the county are now starting their membership campaigns for the year and the local post reports 50 per cent already in and the prospects good for a 100 per cent membership for the ensuing year.

CONFERENCE CHOICE PLEASES METHODISTS

Rev. A. M. Krahl is Returned to Antioch Pastorate for Ensuing Year.

Members and friends of the local Methodist church were gratified at the action taken this week by the Rock River Conference in returning the Rev. A. M. Krahl to the pastorate here. Rev. Krahl came to Antioch a year ago and has been highly regarded not only for his services in behalf of the church, but because of the active part he has taken in the furthering of community enterprises.

May Limit Term of Bishops.

The conference this year voted to pass a memorial urging the general conference which meets in quadrennial session at Kansas City next spring to limit the terms of bishops to eight years instead of allowing them to hold office for life as they now do.

The conference went on record as favoring collective bargaining, protection to agricultural industry, freedom of speech, opposition to militarism, and the employment of union labor in the printing industries under church control.

The conference also voted to adopt the living wage salary scale for all Rock River conference preachers, which would adjust salaries received by all pastors to a minimum of $2000 per year.

Reports of assignments were given out last Monday. Among them are: Barrington, A. G. Billman; Sheridan Road, James O'May; Grayslake, N. S. Nye; Glenview, E. L. Stanton; Harvard, Benjamin M. Will; Ingleside and Fox Lake, C. W. Tomkins; Lake Bluff, Garfield Dawe; Lake Forest, C. H. Draper; Lake Villa, J. I. McKelvey; Libertyville, John DeLong; McHenry and Volo, C. W. McLaughlin; North Chicago, W. E. Lamson; Palatine, John P. Stauffer; Richmond and Solon Mills, P. T. Bohi; Wauconda, (to be supplied); Waukegan, Eleazer Dawe; Winthrop Harbor, Alvin V. Ritts; York House, Harold Haggerty; Zion, W. A. Kishpaugh; Mt. Carroll, C. K. Deilester; Pearl City, M. J. Munford; St. Charles, E. J. Aiken.

FIRE DEPARTMENT RE-ELECTS LAST YEAR'S OFFICERS

Chief Stearns Announces Appointive Officers For Year

Re-election of last year's officers of the Antioch Volunteer Fire Department was the feature of the regular meeting held Tuesday evening. Frank B. Huber will continue as president, George Garlang as treasurer, and Frank Spangard as secretary.

Fire Chief James Stearns made the following appointments: George Schlosser and John Horan, village fire inspectors, the former to succeed Sam Tarbell, who resigned the position because of the fact that he does not intend to spend his winter in Antioch, Robert Wilton and Andrew Cobb were named department lecturers; Arthur Hawkins, Chief Engineer and Clarence Shultz, Lew Van Patten and Elmer Huter, drivers.

Officers for the different companies did not change at this meeting. The audit committee as named by the president, consists of John Horan, James Stearns and Sam Wesley.

The question of a new building was discussed and a committee consisting of James Stearns, Otto S. Klass, and William J. Christian was appointed to prepare plans for a new fire station in the very near future. The Antioch department possesses equipment second to none owned by any department of its size in the state and it was felt that every effort should be made to afford adequate facilities for its preservation and use.

After the business meeting the firemen adjourned to the Antioch Cafe for a supper party. Robert Wilton who was delegate to the recent Firemen's State convention was the speaker of the occasion and gave a report of the state meeting. He was followed by the past and present officers who gave short talks.

LOCAL POULTRYMEN ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Dates of Annual Poultry Show Set for November 10, 11
and 12.

C. L. Kuttel, organizer of the local poultry club and for the past three years its president, was named secretary of that organization and Harold Minto, was advanced to the presidency at the meeting of that organization held at the Antioch township High School last Monday evening.

Mr. Kuttel replaces Dr. G. W. Jensen who has acted as secretary for the past three years, but resigned the position because of the heavy exertions that it made on his time.

Clyde Wentworth was named as the new vice president and Bert Edwards and Carl Hughes as the two new directors.

Show dates were set for Nov. 10, 11th and 12th at Antioch. Light refreshments were served following the meeting.

NEW SIDEWALK TO HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING FINISHED

Completion of the new sidewalk leading to the main entrance of the Antioch Township High School was reported this week. The work was done by Chris Laursen.

BAIRSTOW REPAYS FUNDS SHORT ON TOWNSHIP ACCOUNT

State's Attorney Smith Declares He will Prosecute

Payment of the moneys due Waukegan Township to his successor, Supervisor Matt Dilger, by former Supervisor George H. Bairstow last Saturday wrote another chapter in a story of graft accusations which is probably still not complete.

The matter first came before the public when Supervisor Dilger on taking over his office accused Bairstow of being short $50,000 in his accounts. Twelve indictments have been placed against Bairstow, a special grand jury having returned a true bill against him in August and the grand jury which met last week having confirmed the original decision by a second indictment.

"The fact that Bairstow has turned over this money does not have any bearing on the pending criminal proceeding," declared State Attorney Smith. Bairstow was named defendant in a true bill returned by the grand jury on a charge of withholding township funds and he is to be tried at as early a date as possible.

Payment of the $45,000 last Saturday was not accepted by Waukegan Township as a complete settlement. Bairstow turned over receipts showing $4,950.00 to have been paid by him for salary, investigations and auto hire coming to Mrs. Sarah Showers, his poor investigator, while he was in office. The town board had agreed to pay this bill but Col. Smith refused flatly to accept the responsibility.

Druce, Third Lake Improvement Assn. to Build Dam, Rumor

The Druce-Third Lake Improvement Association of Grayslake, an organization which has for its purpose the construction and maintenance of works for the purpose of retaining water of Druce and Third Lake at a normal level, was granted a charter by the secretary of state last week. Its officers are to be Nelson K. Reese, John M. Kaiser, William E. Pratt and Charles F. Smale.

The plan to build a dam between the two lakes has been under consideration for a long time, but previous to this it was impossible to get an agreement between the people who represented the interests involved. Now it is believed that the project will be carried to a conclusion.

First Killing Frost Visits Antioch

The first killing frost of the season visited Antioch this week. It appears that this season the frost is slightly later than usual.

These are the records as compiled by a government weather station in this region.

The dates on which killing frosts blighted vegetation are: 1907 September 25; 1908, September 29; 1909, October 12; 1910, October 22; 1911, October 24; 1912, September 23; 1913, September 22; 1914, October 17; 1915, October 9; 1916, September 17; 1917, September 19; 1918, September 21; 1919, October 10; 1920, October 4; 1922, October 9; 1923, September 13; 1924, September 29; 1925, October 7.

It appears that the earliest severe frost date in the period of 20 years was September 10, the latest October 27, with the average about the first of October—a date of special interest both to farmers and to hay-fever sufferers, whose malady supposedly ends with the first frost.

New History Teacher Begins Duties at High School This Week

Paul Kessler of Gary, Indiana, arrived this week and is taking the work in the Antioch Township High School of W. P. Jepson, resigned. Mr. Kessler is a graduate of Wabash College and will teach History and English and assist Coach Watson in athletics.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Zellmer of Bonanza, Savannah, Georgia, were in the community Tuesday visiting at the L. B. Congdon and Evan Kaye homes.

Giant Gas Holder Provides Reserve for Fox Lake Region

A "Horton sphere," or spherical gas holder, being constructed at the intersection of Wilson road and Long Lake road near Ingleside, will be put into service about October 15, 1927, according to a recent announcement from the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

This tank, which in appearance is a gigantic steel ball is something of an innovation, there being only two similar gas holders in the Greater Chicago area. Due to its spherical shape, the holder is almost entirely self-supporting, very little internal bracing being necessary. It occupies less ground space than the cylindrical holder and can be constructed of sheet steel only half as thick, which affords a considerable saving in material cost.

The purpose of this new holder is to provide gas storage facilities for customers in the Fox Lake region, thus assuring an unfailingly adequate supply. The tank's capacity will be about 200,000 cubic feet.

During certain hours of the day when gas consumption is comparatively slight, the Hortonsphere will be filled by means of compressors which will pump gas through pipelines from the company's gas station near Niles to the new holder. The gas then will flow from the holder through pipe lines to customers during the hours of maximum demand.

ANTIOCH WINS FIRST GAME OF CONFERENCE

Football Aggregation Brings Home
33 to 0 Victory over Barrington
High School.

The local high school team traveled to Barrington last Friday and came away with the football scalp of Barrington high school to the tune of 33 to 0.

The Antioch boys were expecting a much harder game and so were prepared to light hard from the start and, as a result, they went over for two touchdowns in the first quarter and two in the second quarter, while holding Barrington and forcing them to punt every time they secured the ball.

Barrington did not make a first down except on penalties and then they were unable to bring the ball close enough to carry out any scoring plays.

During the second half Antioch made several substitutions and played a defensive game although they scored another touchdown late in the fourth quarter which brought their total to 33.

The entire team played a much better brand of football than they played the week before and all of the substitutes who saw action gave a good account of themselves. Twenty-four boys were taken on this trip and nineteen of them got into the game.

All touchdowns were made by straight play with Spicer scoring 3 times, Steininger once, and Michell once. Capt. Bernolff, Fisher, Straetz and Craft played a nice defensive game and the entire line worked together on offense.

COUNTY BOARD WILL HEAR AUDITOR'S REPORT TOMORROW

Report Will Show That "$100,000.00 Deal" Is Only Irregularity

The board of supervisors is to meet tomorrow in an adjourned session, at which time the report of Auditor Samuel E. Sims, of Pontiac, who is completing the audit on the books of the county treasurer will be heard. At that time it is expected that Deputy County Clerk J. B. Morse will replace Roy Bracher, treasurer resigned.

It was stated that the report, which will be made direct to the finance committee by Auditor Sims, would show no other irregularity than the juggling about of the $100,000 that was taken from the county treasury and deposited in the Kansas bank that failed.

N. W. High School Conference Admits Bensenville High

On additional school was added to the Northwestern High School conference at the meeting at the Barrington public school building last Wednesday night. The new participant will be the Bensenville High School.

Baker, Franklin Park; V. I. Brown, Arlington Heights; G. C. Butler, Palatine; J. E. Fenton, Bensenville; E. S. Smith, Barrington.

North Shore Wins Award as Fastest Electric Railway

The Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee Railroad—the North Shore Line—has been officially designated as the fastest electrically operated railroad in the United States. This record was established recently with the awarding of the speed trophy to the North Shore Line at the 46th Annual Convention of the American Electric Railway Association at Cleveland, Ohio.

The award was made on the basis of operations during the past year. Official records show that the North Shore Line during that period operated its trains over 8719 miles of track between Chicago and Milwaukee at an average speed of 53.9 per hour, not including stops, and 41.8 miles per hour including stops. The record was set by the train operating between Chicago and Milwaukee at 145 miles per hour including 14 regular stops.

Presentation of the speed trophy was made by the Committee on awards to Bernard J. Fallon, Vice-President in charge of operation of the North Shore Line.

In responding Mr. Fallon said: "The aim of transportation men today is to give their customers the utmost in speed and comfort consistent with safety in operation. That is what we always have aimed to do on the North Shore Line. At no time under the present management, however, have we subordinated the question of safety to that of speed and we never shall do that. The safety and comfort of the passenger is the first consideration with us and always will be."

That is the title of a famous poem written by Rudyard Kipling and first published in 1899. Each stanza of the poem begins with the line: "Take up the white man's burden." Botanists are seeking to learn the secret of why one camphor tree will produce solid camphor, and another, although similar in appearance only, camphor oil, which is far less valuable. The Chinese have kept the secret for centuries, and the Japanese, who discovered it in 1895, are also closely guarding it, for to lose it would be to surrender Japan's camphor monopoly.

HAPPENINGS IN NEARBY TOWNS

The Milwaukee-Janesville passenger train on the C. M. & St. P. railroad made a whistling trip from Milton to Janesville, Wednesday night of last week. The valve became stuck before the train reached Milton, and during the fifteen minute stop gave a serenade to the town. Janesville had to endure the serenade as long as there was any steam left in the locomotive.

Rabbit hunting in Racine and Kenosha before November 1 was forbidden by the State Conservation commission last Friday.

Laws enacted by the legislature fixed the open season for rabbits as beginning October 1. This aroused thousands of hunters and petitions to have the season revert back to the former schedule, or beginning November 1 flooded the commission, which has arbitrary power in fixing dates.

Game Warden A. J. Peterson of Racine has sent out a warning that any hunters violating the rule of the commission will be arrested. Under the law the lowest fine for any offense against game laws is $50.

TREVOR LADIES TO TAKE PART IN CO. ACHIEVEMENT DAY

Social Center Hall Is Scene Of Big Card and Bunco Party

Plans for an Achievement Day program to be held at Kenosha about the middle of November were discussed at the meeting at Social Center Hall, Trevor, last Wednesday when Miss Gladys Meloch, home economics instructor from Madison, met with the ladies.

It is expected that a large number, both of men and women, will attend the Achievement Day program. At that time the different organized groups in the county will show what they have accomplished. An entertainment consisting of songs, stunts, plays, and dialogues, in which each club will be represented, will be one of the features of the Achievement Day.

The Parent-Teachers association will hold their second meeting of the school year at Social Center hall on Friday evening. After the business meeting the school children will put on a program.

You Bean! Me Turkey— Is Fervent Hope Of Chevrolet Salesman

With more than 27,000 persons who make up the selling organization of the Chevrolet Motor Company involved, the unique "turkey-bean" contest inaugurated by this company a year ago is again in full swing during the month of October.

This huge sales organization has been divided for the duration of the contest into competitive groups of which the winners will eat turkey while the losers will sit and dine on beans and the losers will pay all of the check.

Two major divisions of the country have been made, with an assistant general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company in charge of each. D. E. Halston has the western half of the United States, and M. D. Douglas the eastern half.

Each of these sections has been further subdivided. The Flint sales region has been pitted against the Atlantic coast region, the Southeastern region against the Middle West and the Great Lakes region against the Pacific Coast. Every one of the 43 zone sales offices in the United States also has been squared away against another zone; cities are competing against cities, as are dealer organizations and individual salesmen.

In this manner every man in the entire selling organization and every dealer in every section of the country gets an opportunity to demonstrate his ability to outsell his competitor and win himself a turkey dinner.

Officials in the sales department of the home office have gone into the field to aid various groups. H. H. Grant, vice-president in charge of sales, has gone into the Great Lakes region for one week and then will move to other regions; H. J. Klingler, general sales manager, is stationed on the Pacific Coast; Mr. Halston is concentrating on the Middle West; Mr. Douglas on the Southeast; R. K. White, sales promotion manager, has the Atlantic Coast; and Sidney Corbett, manager of the truck division, is located in the Flint region.

BISHOP MULDOON OF ROCKFORD DIOCESE BURIED WEDNESDAY

Widely Known Throughout Region for Welfare Work

The funeral of Bishop Peter J. Muldoon, head of the Rockford diocese of the Catholic church, was held at St. James' cathedral in that place Wednesday morning. Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago officiating with pontifical regalia. The Rev. Austin Dowling, archbishop of St. Paul preached the funeral sermon.

Bishop Muldoon had been the head of the diocese since 1915. His death occurred October 8th, and was due to myocarditis, from which he had been a sufferer for the past two years.

During the war he was widely known for his work as head of the National Catholic Welfare Council. His work in the Rockford diocese was largely in the building of schools, orphanages, and other charitable homes. One of the biggest of these institutions is the Mercyville Sanitarium near Aurora. At the time of the Iroquois fire in Chicago he fought his way through the smoke and flames to administer the last sacrament of the church to the dying in that disaster.

Burial was in St. James' and St. Mary's cemetery, at Rockford.

AS OTHERS SEE US

The other day a former resident, who since his departure from Antioch, has been engaged in commercial work and is a careful student of the progress of the region, paid a visit to the News office, taking time, as he said, to step in just to tell what a good town Antioch is.

"Do you know," remarked the visitor, "that Antioch is the liveliest town of its size in the entire state of Illinois? No other town of its size does the volume of business, and in Lake county it is exceeded only by Waukegan."

He continued with the comment that one of the best features of Antioch is that this town has not reached the peak of its growth and will continue to increase in importance as a business center.

Picking up a copy of the Antioch News he commented on the progressiveness and enterprise of the local business interests, mentioning in particular the advertisement of the First National Bank, with its well worded selling appeal and attractive illustration. "Ads like that are business getters and are an index to the character of the institutions back of them," he said. "This is certainly a pleasant prosperous town and community and every citizen should be proud to make his home here," concluded the speaker.

Nor is this the only instance of commendation that the News might cite. Recently a representative of one of the country's largest commercial agencies stated that Antioch is the best town of its size that he visits in the course of his business activities throughout the central states. Remarks like this are heard frequently in the stores and shops of Antioch.

The News feels that it is worth while to pass the message on to every business man and every reader who has the interests of Antioch at heart.

Chicago, October 11, 1927

The complaisance with which citizens and voters of Antioch apparently accept the dangerous and worn out condition of the road between Antioch and Channel Lake year after year is astonishing, to say the least.

About two weeks ago I called on Mayor Paddock and called his attention to the fact that some one had dumped a lot of good agricultural soil on Lake Street where the new concrete road to Fox Lake leaves the former.

On Saturday and Sunday, the 1st and 2nd Inst., this place was almost impassable, certainly dangerous, and has been that way for a month, yet no one seems to be lifting a hand to have it corrected.

It would seem to me that Antioch merchants cannot fail to appreciate that it is to their and their customers' mutual interest that the roads between their doors are reasonably safe to limb and vehicles. However, if they do not lend their influence with the persons in authority, will they not admit their inability or unwillingness loud enough to be heard.

John R. Blackhall Is Made Head of North Shore R. R.

John R. Blackhall, veteran electric railroad executive of wide experience, has resumed his duties as general manager of the Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee Railroad—the North Shore Line. He succeeds John J. Egolf who resigned to be vice-president and general manager of the Western United Gas and Electric Co., with headquarters at Joliet, Illinois.

At the time of his appointment, Mr. Blackhall was serving as vice-president and general manager of the Chicago and Joliet Electric Railway, with headquarters at Joliet. His offices with the North Shore Line are at Highland, Ill., and he is making his home with his family at Highland Park.

Recognized as one of the leading authorities on electric railroad operation, Mr. Blackhall has made outstanding contributions to the advancement of the industry. He is the inventor of a new type of truck for street cars which is practically noiseless, and has also developed an aluminum body for street cars, which reduces the average weight of the car per passenger almost half. A car of this type will revolutionize the entire street car industry experts say.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—From the comfortable financial situation to which he had been born, Peter Milman, American gentleman of the old school, and last of his family, is practically reduced to penury through the misfortune of a friend, Hazen Brewer, whom he had unwisely trusted.

CHAPTER II—Learning of Brewer's misfortune, which means the destruction of his last hope, Milman engages a French butler, Achille Luty, who speaks no English, and is to replace Speed, servant of long standing. By Luty, Milman sends letters to Prof. Fleming Bradley, Floyd Malet and Neiland Barnes, men whom the world has classed as failures, once of high position. In response, the three call on him at his home.

CHAPTER III—After an excellent dinner Milman ushers his guests into his Japanese garden, where, after each has related the circumstances which wrecked their careers, he convinces them their misfortunes are directly traceable to the machinations of an unseen, unscrupulous enemy, a man who had risen to high financial position and political power by underhand methods, chiefly blackmail, Paul Raxon. Raxon also ruined Brewer, and incidentally Milman.

CHAPTER IV—Milman explains to his guests how, chiefly through his belief in Floyd Malet as a great sculptor and the victim of malicious circumstances, he had subscribed to a press-clipping bureau and kept a detective on Raxon's track, learning much to Raxon's discredit, though nothing by which he could be reached legally. Himself impoverished through Raxon's financial crookedness, Milman proposes an association of the four men—an association outside the law—wholly to pull down Raxon and force him to disgorge his ill-gotten financial gains.

CHAPTER V—Following Milman's disclosures, his three guests, after a consultation, practically decide to join him in the fight against Paul Raxon. Milman explains his ideas, admitting he has no real plan to bring about Raxon's downfall, except incredible details about his personal and business life which he has gleaned from Herman Loddon, Raxon's tool on occasions when wine has loosened Loddon's tongue.

CHAPTER VI—Raxon's political ambition is the national senatorship from his state. McKimber is the admitted party nominee and must be eliminated. At his palatial residence, Great Rock, Raxon plans elaborate entertainments in his political interests. Returning to his humble abode, Neiland Barnes finds his daughter, Anita, who had been living with relatives in England. Having no fit home for the girl, Barnes takes her to Milman's, where she is welcomed as a guest. Overhearing the plans of the conspirators, Anita arranges to join them, assuring them of her confidence she can be of use.

CHAPTER VII—Mrs. Raxon, aware of her shortcomings as a society hostess, falls in with her husband's idea of hiring a well-bred woman and giving her full charge of the household. She engages a Miss Agatha Brown (really Miss Anita Barnes) to take charge. The girl arranges for the employment of her father and Professor Bradley as footmen in the Raxon household, and the "association" awaits developments.

CHAPTER VIII

Anita Barnes fitted into the life at Great Rock very quickly. She would have trouble later on, she decided, with the three Raxon girls, whose ages ranged from twelve to eighteen years. They were attractive in a rather second-rate way. The eldest girl was bitterly opposed to letting Agatha Brown mix with the guests. She saw that on her merits she had no chance against the stranger. Since Miss Brown carried the day and appeared at the dinner table, admirably groomed, the Raxon girls determined to force her out.

Paul Raxon, walking leisurely up his drive one day, was amazed to see two strapping men alight from a taxi outside the house and carry suitcases in as though they had come to stay. As they had gone to the back entrance, he supposed they were men servants hired by the social secretary. It had not, until this moment, occurred to him that to have strange men in the house might be dangerous. There was a new butler expected. That made three. Suspicious and crafty, Raxon saw that he might have three spies here for all he knew.

Neiland Barnes, looking fifteen years younger without his big mustache, was giving his fellow footman a few last words of advice when a black-clothed man pushed open the door of their common sitting room. Never before had Fleming Bradley seen the man who had disgraced him. In a sense the sight of Raxon was a shock. He seemed of a refined type, intelligent, and superior to what Bradley had expected.

Barnes was a better judge of mankind. He saw in Raxon a cruel and vindictive man, indomitable and not to be swayed.

"Allo, handsome," said Barnes gently, "your name Speed?"

"It is not," said Raxon, frowning. Speed. That was Peter Milman's man. He had heard it more than once from Loddon. "Who are you?"

"My name is 'Agathus,' said Barnes. "When you know me well enough you can call me 'Eury.' I'm the new footman. This"—he pointed to Bradley, whose beardless face had a certain childish wisdom about it—"this is Alfred Budd, also a footman to the swell who owns this place. If you aren't Speed, who are you?"

"I happen to be the swell who owns this place," said Raxon. He had no doubt about the human sides of these men. Tall London footmen by the look of them. "Eury's agitation amused him. 'Eury was heard to say that his last employer, Lord Michter, would not so demean himself as to enter his footman's room.

"I do as I please," said Raxon coldly. He left them, as he supposed, wrapped in embarrassment.

"I have seen the footmen," he said to his wife. "They'll do. Let me be told when the new butler comes."

"He's here," said Mrs. Raxon. "I hope he's satisfactory. He has the best references. He was with Mr. Peter Milman for years."

A few minutes later Speed bowed respectfully.

"Why did you leave Mr. Milman?" he was asked.

There was a certain reticence about the man. It seemed he hardly liked to say.

"Mr. Milman was very good to me," he began, "but of late it got to be very hard there, sir."

"In what way?"

"In what way? Mr. Peter is losing his mind. He's had some money losses, I understand, sir, and he's acting queer. It's my belief he's dangerous. He's cut down on the food so there isn't enough to eat. He's been a good employer to me, but when a man don't get his wages or his meals, he has to look out for himself."

"Quite right. I've seen your two new footmen. One of them, 'Eury' he calls himself, seems inclined to be impudent. Check that."

"Impudent?" Speed was incredulous. "Why, Mr. Raxon, they have the highest references. On duty, sir, you'll find no fault with them. I don't know what's come over house-servants of late, Mr. Raxon. When off duty they seem to think themselves as good as anyone else."

Raxon said nothing. His dismissal was a nod. He was satisfied that Miss Agatha Brown knew her job. She had brought in three excellent men, and the colony of Swedish women help seemed thoroughly capable.

He found himself wondering how it was so much intelligence, energy and beauty could be united in a girl who was now only one of his help. It had been Paul Raxon's idea to make a hit with her by his knowledge of furniture.

He had hung upon the door of a lofty apartment with the simple exclamation, "My Louis Seize room."

"What makes you think so?" Miss Brown returned after one brief glance. She pointed out what she declared were forgeries. She went from place to place criticizing here and there until his pride of possession died.

"I know very little about French furniture," she said simply. "When I was at Horsham abbey, Viscount Raoul de Guillian often stayed there. You know, of course, that he is the supreme authority. Oddly enough, I hear he is in New York. If you would like him to see your things, I'm sure he'd be delighted. If you've lots of people coming next week, it might be better to weed some of these out. One hates to be laughed at in that sort of thing."

"I suppose this viscount has a regular foot?"

"He would want to fight a duel with you if you even suggested it. He is quite a rich man and often gives his services to museums to detect forgeries."

"I wonder how I could get hold of him?"

"I'm almost sure he would accept an invitation to dine if I reminded him about Horsham abbey. Shall I write?"

"I'll tell you what we'll do," Raxon said. "Give me a letter of introduction and I'll call tomorrow, when I shall be in New York. Find out where he is staying and let me know."

A few hours later, Viscount Raoul de Guillian, duly warned by a telegram in French dispatched from a distant office, moved into the Ritz.

He received Paul Raxon with reserve. It was only when he learned that Agatha Brown was a guest at Great Rock that he consented to go. He was affable enough to agree to stay there a week.

When he arrived, the admirable Speed was in the hall, and a footman immediately carried his suitcases to his room.

"The whole gang's here now," said 'Eury, wringing his hand. "How's good old Peter?"

"More hopeful than ever," Malet seemed a trifle nervous. He fingered his small mustache and imperial in doubt. "Do you think I can carry this through? If one is suspected, all are suspected."

"Of course you can. Even Alf is getting a firm touch. He had stage-fright at his first dinner, but he's training on splendidly." 'Eury sat in the most comfortable chair he could find and lighted a cigarette. "What's the mystery about McKimber?"

"Is he here yet?"

"He comes tomorrow with wife and son. The eldest Raxon girl is highly excited. What is there to McKimber that old Peter is anxious to know his every move?"

"I'm in the dark, too. Peter says I'm under Nita's orders, and she will tell us what to do."

"You're all right, you're a guest," 'Eury remarked. "I'm only a poor, honest footman and have to be ordered around."

"You've not had any run in with Raxon?"

"Not exactly, but he's a sneering swine. Told Bradley and me only this morning that men-servants were merely parasitic growths. Said that only timidly drove husky men like Alf and me into domestic service. I hope there's a time when he'll think differently."

"Milman wants you to familiarize yourself with Raxon's private rooms. From an interview in a New York paper, it appears he lives in a tower."

"He does. Since I've been here, not even his wife has ventured into it. I go in regularly to carry cedar logs for his open fire. The doors are fitted with special locks. I've taken an impression of the keys. Alf goes to town tomorrow. He'll fetch them. I'm not worrying. Nita and Peter—I never noticed those names rhymed before—are running this show. Raxon expects a great deal from you. He says you are the only expert he ever got for nothing."

Mrs. McKimber, whose fortune had enabled her husband to become one of the wealthiest men in a wealthy state, enjoyed staying in new houses and meeting new sets of people. She saw in this invitation to Great Rock the opportunity of discussing reduction to music, fruit diet, and the gospel of calories. On each of these points Mrs. McKimber had her experiences to relate.

Her son Robin, a good-looking man of five-and-twenty, did not welcome new friends unless he knew all about them and that knowledge proved satisfactory. On the drive from the hotel in New York where the McKimbers always stayed he kept questioning his father about the Raxons. Why should his father waste a week here when he could be touring the state and strengthening his political position? Robin desired to be a senator's son and taste Washington life under the happiest conditions.

Although Raxon had planned that McKimber should visit him, the manufacturer had no idea of it. McKimber on his way to Great Rock felt humiliated with the knowledge that he had virtually asked for an invitation here. A few months before such a thing would have seemed impossible. McKimber had learned suddenly that Paul Raxon was working to gain a primary nomination for the exalted position McKimber believed was already in his own grasp. At first he laughed the idea to scorn. But his campaign manager had showed him innumerable clippings filled with interviews in which Paul Raxon had spoken enthusiastically about beautifying American cities so that the Old world sent her tourists to see them. Raxon had spoken before a federation of women's clubs and had been very well received. He was described as a ready and eloquent speaker.

"He's got a peach of a press agent," said McKimber's campaign manager gloomily, "and his line is absolutely new. It's making a great hit with the influential women."

"He can't win on that side," McKimber growled. He was one of those old-time politicians who distrust women and underestimate their power.

"Maybe not, but he can split the party vote, can't he? His platform is a winner. He promises the building trades plenty of work and he has been their man for twenty years. As I've said, the women will vote for him, and so will the intellectuals. I tell you, John, he's got to be stopped. If he runs, our party loses out. That's sure."

"What sort of a fellow is he?"

"Nobody seems to know. You've got to get under his skin. No good going to his office. In another man's office the cards are stacked against you. Try the social end of it. He's just bought Bellington's place and is going to entertain. I've got it. I know Herman Loddon pretty well. I'll work it so he asks you for a week-end. How about it?"

In the end McKimber agreed this was the best plan. Eventually he, Mrs. McKimber and their son were asked for a week. McKimber did not look forward to his task. But he did not doubt his success. He had been used to dealing with men, and he would have little trouble with a dreamer with a better architecture complex.

Robin refused to be one of the party. He agreed to drive his parents to Great Rock, where they would make his expenses.

"I'm sure you would enjoy yourself," said his mother. "I can't think why you're so particular. Do stay with us, Robin."

The McKimber car described a sudden, alarming lurch.

"If you've accepted, I suppose I ought to stay," said Robin. "Gee, what a beauty!"

"Isn't it?" His mother agreed, thinking he had obtained some new view of the big house they were approaching.

But it was not a view of Great Rock which influenced him. Just for a few seconds as the heavy car swung around a curve Robin McKimber had looked into the amethyst eyes of a lovely girl. He had looked into many eyes, but these were different, baffling, alluring, inviting, repelling. He had barely time to see she was tall and slim and golden-haired.

"I hear," said his mother's placid voice, "that the eldest Raxon girl is good-looking."

"Good-looking," he said indignantly. "She is a peach!"

"When did you see her?" Mrs. McKimber looked at him curiously.

"I mean I've heard she is a peach," he explained.

"They lived in Paris for some years," Mrs. McKimber added. "I imagine they are chic."

"You bet," said Robin heartily.

McKimber sighed and spoke for the first time for some miles.

"You nearly ran us off the road a while ago," he said. "There was a drop of thirty feet at that point. I went to go to Washington. I don't want to end up here."

"I must have the wheel tightened," Robin answered. He hoped he was not flushing. He had thought himself to be above such displays of emotion. But then he had never seen such a girl before. Until now he had believed that writers who described beauties as violet or amethyst were merely lying. He knew now he had misjudged them. They too must have seen the eldest Raxon girl.

It took Robin's utmost composure to keep his face becomingly wreathed in smiles when he was introduced to the Misses Raxon. They were nothing usual types, overdressed and badly made up. When they suggested he might like to see the estate he agreed readily, so readily that the eldest girl dismissed her sisters with a gesture. As the eldest she was to have the first chance.

Robin saw the golden girl as he crossed the golf links.

"One of your house guests?" he asked, as he hoped, without apparent interest.

"That's Miss Brown," said the Raxon girl. "No, she isn't a guest."

"A neighbor, perhaps?"

The eldest Miss Raxon laughed maliciously.

"She's a sort of house-keeper's secretary. Mother and we girls haven't time to think about ordering meals or fine servants, as we hired her."

WADSWORTH PRIEST DIES IN CHICAGO AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Funeral of Rev. J. F. Foley
Held from St. Patrick's Church Tuesday

The Rev. John F. Foley, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church at Wadsworth for the past 17 years, died last Saturday night at Mercy Hospital, Chicago, after a short illness. Death was due to pneumonia and came as a great shock to his friends.

Rev. Foley was widely known both in Wadsworth and at Druce's Lake where he conducted a mission church during the summer months.

He was born at Leftrim, Ireland, in 1877 and received his theological training at St. Mary's, Baltimore. Following his ordination in 1902 he served at McHenry, at St. Mary's church of Elgin, at St. Elizabeth's, Chicago, and for the last 17 years at Wadsworth.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Wadsworth church. Right Reverend Bishop E. F. Hoban, pastor of Corpus Christi church, Chicago, read the mass, assisted by former class mates of the deceased. Rev. Thomas O'Brien, pastor of St. Jarlath's preached the sermon. Interment was made in Mill Creek cemetery. The Waukegan Council, Knights of Columbus, of which Rev. Foley was a member, acted as guard of honor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"ARE SIN, DISEASE, AND DEATH REAL?" was the subject in all churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, October 9.

The Golden Text was from Psalms 103:2, 3, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they faint, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd. Then saith he unto his disciples, The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few: Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest" (Matthew 9:35-38).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "There is neither a present nor an eternal copartnership between error and Truth, between flesh and Spirit. God is incapable of producing sin, sickness, and death as He is of experiencing these errors" (p. 356).

Hallelujah Victory

The Hallelujah victory was that gained by the Britons over the combined Picts and Scots at Moid, in Flintshire, England, March 30, 430. It is so named from the war cry adopted by the Britons.

STATE CAPITAL

NEWS IN BRIEF

A little walnut cradle in which Abraham Lincoln was tenderly rocked by his fond mother in a Kentucky wilderness shack more than 118 years ago is to be added to the now large number of Lincoln relics on display at Springfield. It has not been determined where the cradle, now priceless from a historical and sentimental standpoint, will be put.

The cradle was brought to Springfield by Miss Margaret O'Herron, Streator and it belongs to her mother, Mrs. Anna O'Herron. The relic is in an excellent state of preservation and is made of walnut mortised together with wooden pegs. It is 36 inches long, 20 inches high at one end and 14 inches high at the other.

The weekly health report just issued by Dr. I. D. Rawlings director of public health, shows that 50 cases of infantile paralysis are under quarantine in the state and 14 of them are in Cook county. One hundred cases of diphtheria, 129 of scarlet fever, 46 of typhoid fever, and 5 of smallpox are now in existence throughout the state.

The state division of highways recently awarded contracts as follows: Route 78, Sect. 134B, Fulton county bridge to M. R. Deyo, Peoria, $28,031.15.

The first white child to be born in the city of Virginia is dead. Robert Hall passed away at his home in Virginia at the age of 92 years. The city of Virginia was founded by Dr. Henry H. Hall's father. Mr. Hall was one of the largest land owners in the state. He was born June 16, 1835.

Governor Len Small has been besieged by a large number of road boosters and has met with many committees on road building during the past week. Senator William S. Jewell and Representative Reed Cutler of Lewistown led a small delegation to the Governor's office recently to discuss the proposed state road at Havana with the use of the Havana levee as a base.

Morgan county wants additional hard roads and is willing to cooperate in any building program that may be outlined by the state department of public works and buildings. A large delegation visited Governor Small last week to discuss Morgan county plans with him.

Representative Jacob Marlene of McLean county headed a group urging early work on route 165 in that county. Senator Abt and Representative Petrie of East St. Louis brought 15 delegates to discuss the proposed highway from Marietta.

A large delegation of boosters for the hard road from Carlinville to Kampsville came to Springfield last week to urge Governor Small and the state department of public works and buildings to begin work at the earliest date.

The Governor attended public hearings on road routes at Fulton last Thursday and at Prophetstown last Friday. Thursday he considered Route 80 which runs from Moline and connects with Route 5. Friday he considered Route 78 from Mt. Carroll to Kewanee. The Governor is still continuing to receive many delegations of boosters for hard roads over the state.

The shooting season for migratory birds, ducks, geese, brant, coots, and snipe, opened on October 1. The season did not open on September 16, stated W. J. Stratton, Director of the State Department of Conservation. While the Illinois Game Code gives the open season for taking migratory birds as September 16 to December 31 it also provides that the Illinois law must comply with the Federal regulations.

A conference of state and federal health authorities will be held in Springfield on October 13 according to a recent announcement by Dr. I. D. Rawlings state health director. Education of the general public and the increased interest in the work which is being done by the state of Illinois in the care and treatment of state wards in the charitable institutions is the main factor in the increase of populations in the state hospitals in the opinion of Dr. Alex S. Hershfield, state alienist.

The second test on the legality of the two-cent tax on gasoline passed by the last session of the state legislature has been launched in the federal court in Chicago. A reduction of 20 per cent in the evaluation of Sangamon county farm land has been ordered by the local board of review. The move followed a plea made in behalf of the farmers by Attorney Clayton Barber, who urged a reduction of 25 per cent in the evaluation.
